WHO WILL FOLLOW THIS NOTICE

This notice describes Behavioral Wellness’s practices and that of:

- Any health care professional authorized to enter information into your medical chart;
- Any member of a volunteer group we allow to help you while you are receiving Behavioral Wellness care;

All these entities and individuals follow the terms of this notice. In addition, they may share medical information with each other for treatment, payment or health care operations purposes described in this notice.

OUR PLEDGE REGARDING MENTAL HEALTH INFORMATION

We understand that information about your mental health information is personal. We are committed to protecting mental health information about you. We create a record of the care and services you receive at Behavioral Wellness. We need this record to provide you with quality care and to comply with certain legal requirements. This notice applies to your mental health information generated by Behavioral Wellness.

This notice will tell you about the ways in which we may use and disclose mental health information about you. We also describe your rights and certain obligations we have regarding the use and disclosure of your mental health information.

We are required by law to:

- Make sure that mental health information that identifies you is kept confidential (with certain exceptions);

HOW WE MAY USE AND DISCLOSE MENTAL HEALTH INFORMATION ABOUT YOU

The following categories describe different ways that we use and disclose mental health information. For each category of uses or disclosures we will explain what we mean and try to give some examples. Not every use or disclosure in a category will be listed. However, all of the ways we are permitted to use and disclose information will fall within one of the categories.

DISCLOSURE AT YOUR REQUEST

We may disclose information when requested by you. This disclosure at your request may require a written authorization by you.

FOR TREATMENT

We may use mental health information about you to provide you with medical or mental health treatment or services. We may disclose mental health information about you to doctors, nurses, technicians, health care students, or other Behavioral Wellness personnel who are involved in taking care of you at Behavioral Wellness. For example, a doctor treating you for a mental health condition may need to know what medication you are currently taking, because the medications may affect what other medications may be prescribed for you. In addition, the doctor may need to tell Behavioral Wellness's food service if you are taking certain medications so that we can arrange for appropriate meals that will not interfere or improperly interact with your medication. Different divisions of Behavioral Wellness also may share mental health information about you in order to coordinate the different things you need, such as prescriptions, lab work and x-rays. We also may disclose mental health information about you to people outside Behavioral Wellness who may be involved in your medical or mental health treatment after you leave Behavioral Wellness, such as skilled nursing facilities, home health agencies and physicians or other practitioners. For example, we may give your physician access to your health information to assist your physician in treating you.

FOR PAYMENT

We may use and disclose mental health information about you so that the treatment and services you receive at Behavioral Wellness may be billed to and payment may be collected from you, an insurance company or a third party. For example, we may need to give your health plan information about treatment you received at the Behavioral Wellness so your health plan will pay us or reimburse you for the treatment. We may also tell your health plan about a treatment you are going to receive to obtain prior approval or to determine whether your plan will cover the treatment.

FOR HEALTH CARE OPERATIONS

We may use and disclose mental health information about you for health care operations. These uses and disclosures are necessary to run Behavioral Wellness and make sure that all of our patients receive quality care. For example, we may use mental health information to review our treatment and services and to evaluate the performance of our staff in caring for you. We may also combine mental health information about many Behavioral Wellness patients to decide what additional services Behavioral Wellness should offer, what services are not needed, and whether certain new treatments are effective. We may also disclose information to doctors, nurses, technicians, health care students, and other Behavioral Wellness personnel for review and learning purposes. We may also combine the mental health information we have with mental health information from other healthcare providers to compare how we are doing and see where we can make improvements in the care and services we offer. We may remove information that identifies you from this set of mental health information so others may use it to study health care and health care delivery without learning who the specific patients are.

APPOINTMENT REMINDERS

We may use and disclose mental health information to contact you as a reminder that you have an appointment for treatment or care at Behavioral Wellness.

TREATMENT ALTERNATIVES

We may use and disclose mental health information to tell you about or recommend possible treatment options or alternatives that may be of interest to you.

Upon your admission to an Behavioral Wellness inpatient facility; we must make reasonable attempts to notify your next of kin or any other person designated by you, of your admission, unless you request that this information not be provided. Unless you request that this information not be provided we must make reasonable attempts to notify your next of kin or any other person designated by you, of your release, transfer, serious illness, injury, or death only upon request of the family member.

RESEARCH

Under certain circumstances, we may use and disclose mental health information about you for research purposes. For example, a research project may involve comparing the health and recovery of all patients who received one medication to those who received another, for the same condition. All research projects, however, are subject to a special approval process. This process evaluates a proposed research project and its use of mental health information, trying to balance the research needs with patients' need for privacy of their mental health information. Before we use or disclose mental health information for research, the project will have been approved through this research approval process, but we may, however, disclose mental health information about you to people preparing to conduct a research project, for example, to help them look for patients with specific mental health needs, as long as the mental health information they review does not leave Behavioral Wellness.

We will disclose mental health information about you when required to do so by federal, state or local law.

TO AVERT A SERIOUS THREAT TO HEALTH OR SAFETY

SENATE AND ASSEMBLY RULES COMMITTEES

We may disclose your mental health information to the Senate or Assembly Rules Committee for purpose of legislative investigation.

SPECIAL CATEGORIES OF INFORMATION

SUBSTANCE ABUSE INFORMATION

Although the federal Privacy Rule does not make a distinction between medical and substance abuse information, other federal statutes and California state laws do provide statutory restrictions for the release of information developed or obtained in the course of providing substance abuse treatment in federally funded substance abuse programs. Substance abuse information obtained in the course of general medical treatment is not subject to these provisions. Therefore, substance abuse information may be shared among Behavioral Wellness providers and to its contracted providers without authorization of the patient for patient care purposes. For example, substance abuse information may be shared from the General Medical Clinic to Behavioral Wellness Mental Health Services or to a substance abuse program. However, the contracted substance abuse treatment program must obtain the patient's authorization to share information back to the General Medical Clinic or Behavioral Wellness Mental Health Services. All other uses and disclosures require specific substance abuse authorization from the patient.

Information pertaining to substance abuse patients is subject to special protection under federal statute 42 U.S.C. Section 290dd-2 and under federal regulations found in the "Confidentiality of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Patient Records," 42 C.F.R. part 2. Additionally, California Health and Safety Code Section 11977 provides special protections to information of certain drug abuse programs. The LPS Act may also apply if the patient receives services such as involuntary evaluation and treatment because the patient is gravely disabled or dangerous to self or others as a result of abuse of alcohol, narcotics, or other dangerous drugs.

These federal and state statutes require written authorization for disclosure of substance abuse information in certain circumstances and other special protections for substance abuse information. In these situations, the state law must be followed. Questions regarding the use or disclosure of substance abuse information should be referred to the Behavioral Wellness Privacy Officer.

OTHER SPECIAL CATEGORIES OF INFORMATION

Special legal requirements may apply to the use or disclosure of certain categories of information e.g., tests for the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) or treatment and services for alcohol and drug abuse. In addition, somewhat different rules may apply to the use and disclosure of medical information related to any general medical (non-mental health) care you receive.

PSYCHOTHERAPY NOTES

Psychotherapy notes means notes recorded (in any medium) by a health care provider who is a mental health professional documenting or analyzing the contents of conversation during a private counseling session or a group, joint, or family counseling session and that are separated from the rest of the individual's medical record. Psychotherapy notes excludes medication prescription and monitoring, counseling session start and stop times, the modalities and frequencies of treatment furnished, results of clinical tests, and any summary of the following items: diagnosis, functional status, the treatment plan, symptoms, prognosis, and progress to date. We may use or disclose your psychotherapy notes, as required by law, or:

- For use by the originator of the notes;
- In supervised mental health training programs for students, trainees, or practitioners;
- By the covered entity to defend a legal action or other proceeding brought by the individual;
- To prevent or lessen a serious and imminent threat to the health or safety of a person or the public;
- For the health oversight of the originator of the psychotherapy notes;
- For use or disclosure to coroner or medical examiner to report a patient's death;
- For use or disclosure necessary to prevent or lessen a serious and imminent threat to the health or safety of a person or the public; and
- For use or disclosure to the Secretary of DHHS in the course of an investigation. Unless we obtain your written permission, we will never use or disclose Psychotherapy Notes for any other purpose.

We may deny your request to inspect and copy in certain very limited circumstances. If you are denied access to mental health information, you may request that the denial be reviewed. Another licensed health care professional chosen by Behavioral Wellness will review your request and the denial. The person conducting the review will not be the person who denied your request. We will comply with the outcome of the review.

- Is accurate and complete.

Even if we deny your request for amendment, you have the right to submit a written addendum, not to exceed 250 words, with respect to any item or statement in your record you believe is incomplete or incorrect. If you clearly indicate in writing that you want the addendum to be made part of your mental health record we will attach it to your records and include it whenever we make a disclosure of the item or statement you believe to be incomplete or incorrect.

RIGHT TO AN ACCOUNTING OF DISCLOSURES

You have the right to request an "accounting of disclosures." This is a list of the disclosures we made of mental health information about you other than our own uses for treatment, payment and health care operations (as those functions are described above) and with other exceptions pursuant to the law.

To request this list or accounting of disclosures, you must submit your request in writing to:

Behavioral Wellness – MEDICAL RECORDS

For additional lists, we may charge you for the costs of providing the list. We will notify you of the cost involved and you may choose to withdraw or modify your request at that time before any costs are incurred.

In addition, we will notify you as required by law if your health information is unlawfully accessed or disclosed.

Once Behavioral Wellness has fully converted to maintaining mental health information as an Electronic Health Record (EHR), then it will also give patients, upon written request, an accounting of disclosures made through an EHR for treatment, payment and healthcare operations. This accounting will be made for a period of up to three years prior to the date the accounting is requested, and will include disclosures by business associates, or a list of all business associates with their contact information.

RIGHT TO REQUEST RESTRICTIONS

You have the right to request a restriction or limitation on the mental health information we use or disclose about you for treatment, payment or health care operations. You also have the right to request a limit on the mental health information we disclose about you to someone who is involved in your care or the payment for your care, like a family member or friend. For example, you could ask that we not use or disclose information about a type of therapy you had.

We are not required to agree to your request unless it is for a restriction on disclosures to health plans for services you paid in full. If we do agree, we will comply with your request unless the information is needed to provide you emergency treatment.

To request restrictions, you must make your request in writing to:

Behavioral Wellness – MEDICAL RECORDS
315 Camino Del Remedio
